On or about February 20, 2018, in the Fort Worth Division of the Northern District of Texas, the defendant, Christopher Crotty (Crotty), knowingly and intentionally possessed a mixture and substance containing a detectable amount of steroids, a Schedule III controlled substance.

Since at least as early as April 2017, Crotty resided in and around the Northern District of Texas. Beginning around April 2017, and continuing through in or around February 2018, Crotty aided and assisted Ryan Conor Savage (Savage) in distributing steroids to customers within the Northern District of Texas and elsewhere. Savage received steroids from sources in Asia, and repackaged the steroids for distribution to his customers. Among other means, Savage distributed steroids to customers by mailing the steroids via the U.S. Postal Service. In exchange for the steroids, Savage's customers would pay him U.S. currency, including by making wire transfers to Savage or other individuals acting on his behalf. Crotty assisted Savage in conducting approximately 3-12 distribution transactions per month, including collecting wire payments from customers. Savage stored steroids in his residence on Northampton Street in Fort Worth, and later moved them to Crotty's residence in Dallas, Texas. On or about February 20, 2018, approximately 39,229.92 dosage units of steroids were stored at Crotty's residence.
